

CLASS OF '72 PRESENTS

FORWARD '72

ENERGETIC

Hello friends of SJC! Allow me to introduce myself. The name is KUMA, the Panda. This year, I will serve as guide and comic relief for the Yearbook. You will find me on various pages throughout the book, popping up unexpectedly in odd little corners here and there.

Perhaps you are wondering why the Forward staff has chosen a Panda to be the Yearbook's mascot. After all, what does a bear have to do with St. Joseph's? The answer is quite simple. Giant Pandas are playful and clowning, just like the students of good ol' St. Joe's. Of course, this doesn't mean that they never study, but the student body knows how to and do enjoy themselves whenever possible, even in school. Thus, the bear is the symbol of the SJC man. Anyway, ladies and gentlemen, the 1972 Forward Yearbook

Dear Seniors of the Class of 1972,

Well, your great day has come, and no doubt, you are anxiously waiting for what lies ahead - college for the great majority of you, work for the rest. The most of you will be on your - something for which you are probably craving. You want to be on your own and doing your thing. All well and good.

But like the Olympic champions, you have people on the sidelines who reared, taught and coached you; yes, even cried, "sweated" and cheered for you in your faithful endeavors. Among these are the underclassmen who were with you all the way in their support of you. And so it will be, even though you now seem to be on your own. The sideliners will be the ones you will see from the stage. And if they aren't there, you will be sadly disappointed.

Well then, with all your know how in this epic era of the 70's with their zenith heights of achievement, don't forget you are where you are because of somebody else. Your present beautiful Forward is your lasting grateful testimonial to your Alma Mater in this respect. St. Joseph College thanks you. Seniors, CONGRATULATIONS! and FAREWELL! in God's name from your onlookers at SJC.

OUR . . .

A warm, beautiful spring day in Yokohama. Walking through Gaijin Bochi, we see two bent, aging SJC faculty members sitting on a bench engaged in the timeless conversation of the old. One has a still-robust build and curly gray hair. The other, somewhat slimmer, has unmistakable traces of sideburns left, and faint tinges of brown, or is it red, around the receding hair line. Sneaking up behind them, we hear their dialogue:

"Say Brother Norbert, remember the class of '72? Weren't they really something?"

"I'll say Larry, they really had that, that . . ."

"Kind of hard to describe weren't they?"

"Intelligence . . ."

"Spirit . . ."

"Respect . . ."

"No, none of those describe them."

"Stupidity?"

"Well . . ."

"Anyway, I've received many letters from some of them telling me how they've made out in life, and I know you have. What say we kind of compare notes and see what they're all doing?"

"Well, let's see. The first one that comes to mind is good old Fong. Heard that he's made quite a name for himself back stateside."

"Really? What's he doing?"

"He's been campaigning and demonstrating all over the place. Head of the Anti-Pornography and All American Decency League for the Preservation of Our Children's Innocence, I believe."

"Good old Fong, I knew he had it in him. He really was such a clean, spirited youth."

"And then, Claudio has opened a string of nation-wide Yakitori-yas. Doing quite well, too, I've heard. With an order of ten sticks, you get a free shot of saké. Colonel Claudio's Kentucky Fried Yakitori."

"I got a note from that Paul kid, seems he's landed a good job with Bell Telephone."

"Really? Doing what?"

"He's a telephone pole. In case of a collapse somewhere on the line, he goes and holds the wires until a new pole is installed."

"And then of course, you remember Harry Nakamoto, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, there's been a big revival of smiley buttons in the States, and he's serving as a model for the smiley button makers. Also made a nice wad doing toothpaste commercials."

"What about this. Philip Eymard has a job with Ringling Brothers circus. Seems that right after he left school, some girl he knew, think her name was Carmie or Kamy or something, turned him down. Anyhow, he started eating to make up for his loss. Guess it worked out all right, he is now the world's Tallest Fat Man in the circus."

"I have a newspaper clipping here about the most fantastic basketball duo in the history of professional basketball. Two of our grads got together, Harold Iwata and Mark Angelos, and decided to join a team. You should see them operate. They never miss a shot. Iwata will get the ball, and dribble up to where Mark is waiting under their team's basket. Mark bends over a bit, then Iwata jumps on his back, stands on his shoulders, and dunks the ball. They're unbeatable."

"I heard that Dewey Yang has become president of the Tokyo Gas Company. Since he's taken over, the annual output has increased by over 56.25%. I don't know how he does it, but it sure works."

"Speaking of the China Town Gang, Kenny and Kevin have gone into joint partnership. They've opened the world's first "Clean While You Wait" Chinese Laundry Service. And, while you're waiting, you get a free bowl of Kikuya Ramen. For some reason, not too many customers wait to have their clothes cleaned. They prefer to come back later."

"Oh yes, I know of that place, my friend sent his suit there to be cleaned. It came back so starched, that when he tried to put it on, it cracked in half. Not only that, but he found a fortune inside."

"Be that as it may, Kwak and Aboyo have really made the headlines. They were down in Isezaki-cho one night around 11:55 when this idea struck them. They got their inspiration from the show they were watching. Anyway, they are now working the Las Vegas circuit. The only male strip show in existence. The Women's Lib Movement was going to give them a medal, but they modestly desisted, saying that their enthusiastic response was all the thanks they needed."

"Seems that everyone is making it in pairs, Ming Kuei and Liang are currently working as test drivers for an automotive company. Guess it was their life-long ambition—to drive—that is. They can really handle those Subaru 360's. I heard that Ming Kuei had a terrific accident. He was test driving a Subaru, really hauling at around 40 k's, when he went into a sharp turn and the wheels fell off. But, I guess that it is an exciting way to live."

"Mr. Ahmed is making it as a salesman for Olympia typewriters. He can really sell those machines. The company refuses to let him demonstrate though, they keep referring to his typing record back at SJC, can't understand it."

"One of the boys who went into the field he was best suited for was James Tie."

Even in school, he had an amazing ability in the musical field, now he's got his own business going. Everyday, you can see him on the backstreets of Isezaki-cho grinding his organ. He's got a real attraction though, Don Lam wears a little red hat and dances around to the music, just like the monkeys in the old days. Even has a little cup and everything. The side of the organ has their name on it, "Kojiki Tie and his Dancing Saru."

"One sad note, one of the boys, Shimizu, was on an expedition to the Himalayas when he was kidnapped by a group of wild Panda bears. He was last seen happily leading his female harem of she-bears through the tricky Kuma Pass, named in his honor."

"Song is still taking pictures, not for a yearbook though. Hugh Hefner has him on the Playboy staff, says that Jin is one of the most hard-working photographers he's ever seen. He said that he's always taking pictures of the bunnies. Only one problem—he forgets to load the camera."

"Robert Tun, world famous horticulturist, or perhaps I should say the late Robert Tun, was working on a secret project for the Japanese government. I heard that while attempting to develop a man-eating plant, he was eaten."

"Komaki is seriously thinking about becoming a burlesque comedian for Kwak and Aboyo's show. He formerly worked as a waiter for the Bunny Club in Shinjuku, but couldn't make it because of the competition."

"Hayashi has also become a salesman. But for some odd reason, he is really doing poorly. Hardly makes any sales."

"What is he selling?"

"Artificial human wigs, he can't understand why he's failing so badly. He says that it is "absurd" and keeps telling his customers to "commit suicide, when they don't buy from him."

"Henry Hsieh should really interest you Mr. Hackett, he is playing an important role in world economics."

"How does he do that?"

"Well, you remember the gold crisis many years ago?"

"Yes."

"Well, in order to avoid another such crisis, the U.S. Government has purchased his help. He is their gold reserve, in reserve. He gets a huge salary plus a pair of dentures."

"One of the other members of the class of '72 has passed away. I just remembered it. I'm referring to Milton Takao. You remember his acute interest in fish and marine life! Well, that interest finally killed him . . . He was aboard the oceanographic research vessel of the University of Hawaii, cruising in the Atlantic for specimens. Milton accidentally fell overboard, and was immediately shot by a nearsighted harpooner on a Russian vessel who thought he was a whale."

"One last tidbit. Kim (alias Toyu Yazaki) has seemed to have attained most of his highschool ambitions. Remember how he loved sports! And how he wanted to be a radical! Well, he's made all three. He is the world's first long-haired soccer referee who throws fire bombs instead of blowing. He also gets the losing team to demonstrate against the winning team after each game, claims unfair competition."

"Well, I guess we've run through everybody haven't we. The class of '72 has really spread out into many different fields."

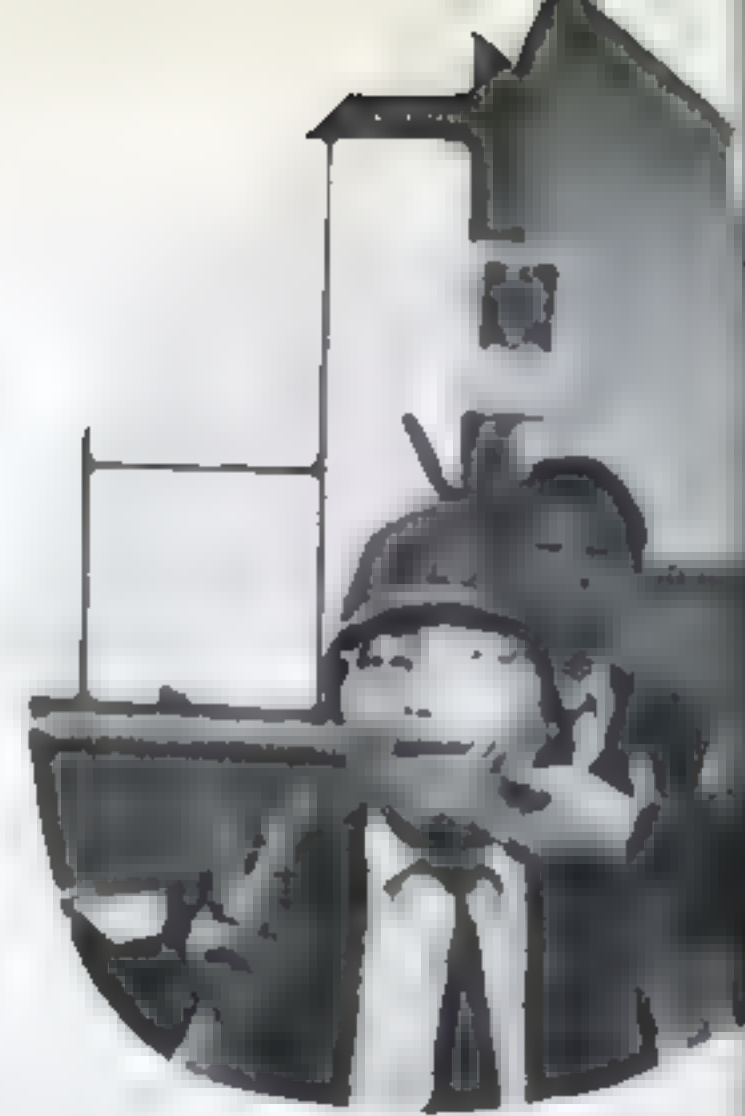

"Guess we'd better get back to school, I believe that Father John Lin has called a special Administrative meeting to discuss the new school regulations. This year, He's aiming to discover the one thousand and first school regulation."

"Some people will do anything to get in the Guinness World Book of Records."

SAYONARA '72

Forward — harboring and cherishing this epithet in my heart, I have navigated through the rough-sea for the past nine months. It was not a particularly lengthy and protracted voyage, but my ship has acquiesced and even tolerated injuries and wounds of every description. Its faculty has been functionally disordered; it is, at present, at anchor in a certain bay.

Locating and repairing the damaged sections of the engineering branch, scraping off oysters and acorn barnacles which retard the headway, the timeworn ship is drawing a long breath before re-launching itself onto the open sea for the voyage by wind and waves.

But sooner or later, the senile ship will make its appearance on the high seas.

Whatever may happen, this ship must not sink. Even if the mast is broken, the rudder is wrenched and the ship is flooded, the aged vessel must go Forward. It is because an important passenger (who is myself) is on board.

As I ready myself for the next voyage, I say a sincere SAYONARA to all my fellow students and friends of SJC.

John Lin
Editor '72

I would like to take this occasion to express my sincere thanks to the following people whose time-consuming sacrifices made the publishing of the Forward '72 possible. In amazement, so FEW have dedicated themselves for the cause.
